Ted Barnett, Senior Fiscal Analyst

H.928 – An act relating to technical corrections to fish and wildlife statutes

As introduced¹ⁱ

Bill Summary

The bill would make technical corrections to the points system statute for fish and wildlife violations. The bill would also give the Commissioner of Fish and Wildlife the ability to determine whether licenses should expire on December 31 of the year they were issued or 365 days after the date of issuance. Finally, the bill would give the Commissioner the ability to create additional big game tags beyond what is currently outlined in statute.

Fiscal Impact

The bill would have a minimal positive impact to license revenues, which flow to the Fish and Wildlife Fund. The ability to extend certain licenses to renew on a 365-day period would be discretionary but could increase fee revenue, since visitors in the latter part of the year might be more likely to buy an annual license as opposed to a one or two-day license if the license is valid for 365 days. The Department likely would not implement this change for any licenses in fiscal year 2027.

Additional big game tags created by the Commissioner could also increase license fee revenues. Currently, there are six big game licenses in statute: archery, muzzleloader, turkey, moose, bear, and additional deer archery. This bill could add additional tags at the prevailing rate for big game tags. However, the type of big game tags that would be created and the number of each tag that would be sold is not known.
