S.18 – An act relating to licensure of freestanding birth centers

As Passed by the General Assembly^{1,i}

Bill Summary

The bill proposes to establish a licensing structure for freestanding birth centers. It would also require health insurance plans that provide maternity benefits to cover midwifery services provided at a birth center and require the Agency of Human Services (AHS) to seek approval from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) to provide Medicaid reimbursement for birth center services.

Background and Details

Birth centers are health care facilities designed to provide a more home-like environment for childbirth and are geared toward low-risk pregnancies. They are usually staffed with licensed midwives and support teams (and sometimes obstetricians). Most birth centers tend to take a more holistic approach to pregnancy, labor, and postpartum care.

Both anecdotal and empirical evidence suggest the potential for cost savings if access to birth centers was available. Strong Start for Mothers and Newborns (Strong Start) tested the effects on costs and outcomes of birth centers for Medicaid beneficiaries from 2013 to 2017 and found that that birth center births were an average of $2,010 cheaper than typical care births.²

Fiscal Impact

Sec. 1 would create a $250 fee for license applications, renewals, or changes in ownership. The fees would be deposited into the Hospital Licensing Fees Special Fund and be available to the Department of Health (VDH) to offset the costs of licensing birth centers. Initial revenues from this fee are anticipated to be nominal and will depend on the number of applicants.

Sec. 2 would amend 8 V.S.A. § 4099d. Currently the statute requires health insurance plans providing maternity benefits to also provide coverage for services rendered by a licensed midwife or certified nurse midwife for services within their “scope of practice and provided in a hospital or other health care facility or at home.” Sec. 2 would insert “birth center” after the word “hospital,” requiring the coverage to also count at a birth center. The Vermont State Employee Health Plan already covers birth centers. Although there are currently no birth centers in Vermont, there are two in New Hampshire that are part of the Blue Cross Blue Shield of Vermont network.³ Further, the policy states that “if using a nurse midwife, the provider must be a network certified nurse midwife or network licensed professional midwife; there is no coverage for lay or out-of-network midwives.” From 2022 to 2024, the plan paid for an average of 203 births per year.⁴ The fiscal impact and/or the potential for savings to the State employee health plan will depend on the timing of birth centers coming online and the utilization rate.

Sec. 4 would direct AHS to seek approval from CMS to allow Vermont Medicaid to cover prenatal, maternity, postpartum, and newborn services provided at a licensed birth center and to allow Vermont Medicaid to reimburse separately for birth center services, including facility fees, and professional services. From 2021 to 2023 Vermont Medicaid paid for an average of 2,033 births per year.⁵ The fiscal impact and/or the potential for savings to the Medicaid program will depend on the timing of birth centers coming online, CMS approval, and the utilization rate.

Summary

The bill would have no immediate fiscal impact on the State budget.

- Fee revenues are anticipated to be nominal and will depend on how the number of license applicants and subsequent renewals.
- Evidence suggests the potential for savings in the Medicaid program and the State employee health plan, depending on access to and utilization of birth centers once they come online.
