INTRODUCTION

Act 75 (2005) charged the Department of Taxes and Joint Fiscal Office to work cooperatively to prepare a biennial report on tax expenditures in the individual and corporate income, sales and use, meals and rooms, and property taxes beginning January 15, 2009, with transitional reports due in 2006, 2007 and 2008. Act 207 (2006) added bank franchise and insurance premiums tax expenditures to the report in 2009. The first two transitional tax expenditure reports on individual and corporate income taxes, and sales and use taxes were produced in 2006 and 2007. This is the third and last phase of the transition. This report updates the income tax and sales and use expenditures and also adds expenditure estimates for meals and rooms tax and property tax exemptions. Thereafter, the report will be produced biennially, beginning in January 2009, with updates for the tax expenditures listed above.

The report contains a list of the tax expenditures for each tax type, which includes a brief description of each expenditure, the statutory authorization and date of enactment, the number of taxpayers affected if available, and estimated revenue impact for the most recent fiscal year. Income tax expenditures are calculated from tax return data and reported for the most recent year in which full data are available. Following the detailed lists, there are several summary tables of expenditures by tax type.

What Are Tax Expenditures?

Taxes are an essential source of revenue for all state governments, but the manner in which they are imposed varies considerably from state to state. In its simplest form, a tax is an across-the-board levy on a base, such as income or retail sales, to which a specific rate applies and for which no modifications exist. In practice, most state tax codes incorporate a number of exclusions, exemptions, deductions, credits, and deferrals designed to encourage certain taxpayer activity or to limit the tax burden on certain types of individuals or endeavors. Known as "tax expenditures," these provisions reduce the amount of tax revenues that would be collected if no modifications existed. In this sense, the fiscal effects of a tax expenditure are identical to a direct government expenditure.

Most tax expenditures involve a permanent loss of revenue, and thus are comparable to a payment by the government. Since tax expenditures are designed to accomplish certain public goals that otherwise might be met through direct appropriation, it is appropriate for states to require the same kind of analysis and review of tax expenditures that the appropriations budget receives.

Some provisions of the tax code represent tax expenditures as described above, while others are part of the basic structure of a given tax. The "basic structure" is the set of rules that defines the taxable base; a tax expenditure is an exception to those rules. The tax base is discussed in the introductory information for each tax type analyzed.

Tax expenditures are created to provide economic assistance to certain groups of workers, consumers or producers. This report estimates those expenditures that the Vermont Legislature can alter and does not evaluate their equity or desirability from a public policy standpoint.

INDIVIDUAL AND CORPORATE INCOME TAX EXPENDITURES

INDIVIDUAL AND CORPORATE INCOME TAX EXPENDITURES

Individual and corporate income tax expenditures in the current report are shown for tax years 2004 and 2005, the most recent years the Department of Taxes has complete data. Act 75 called for the revenue impact of tax expenditures to be estimated by most recent fiscal year, but this would represent a minimum of two tax filing years for income tax expenditures. Therefore, income tax expenditures are reported by calendar year to reflect the data associated with one particular tax season. This highlights the differences between accounting and budgetary concepts, tax returns processing, and even taxpayer behavior. In short, these figures can be used to estimate the value of a particular tax expenditure to the taxpayers or the state annually, but these estimates must be adjusted to gauge the impact to state revenues by fiscal year.

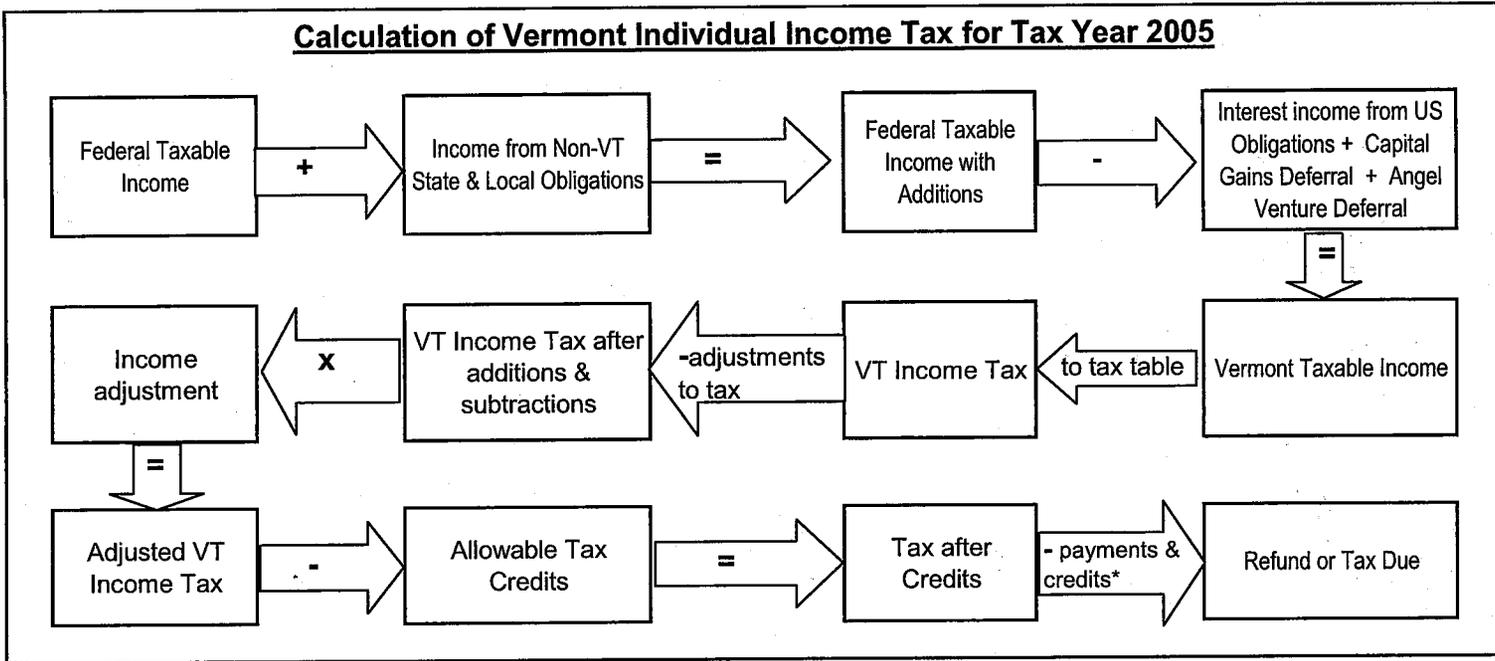

State income taxes are linked to the federal tax structure, and Title 32 of the Vermont Statutes repeatedly reference definitions of federal taxable income on which Vermont's individual and corporate income taxes are based. For that reason, the concept of "tax expenditures" for purposes of this report begins with federal taxable income and does not consider the myriad deductions, exclusions, and deferrals that reduce the federal tax base. Only those exclusions, exemptions, deductions, credits, and deferrals enacted into the Vermont tax code that modify the federal tax base are identified and analyzed.

Tax provisions reflecting federal prohibitions against state taxation are also considered part of the basic tax structure and therefore not considered in this report. Prohibitions can relate to types of income, such as interest income from U.S. government obligations or railroad retirement income, or to types of entities, such as non-profit corporations or governmental bodies. Some exclusions or exemptions arise from legislative decisions to levy taxes under an alternative scheme, e.g., the insurance premiums tax and bank franchise tax in lieu of income tax. Banks and insurance companies are not considered "taxable corporations" and thus not treated as expenditures in the income tax portion of the report.

The report does not include all tax reduction provisions in statute. For instance, the credit for income tax paid to another state, although not directly required by federal law, is almost uniformly allowed as a mechanism to avoid double taxation of income. Section 9743 (1) and (2) of Title 32, which exempts the State and federal government from sales and use taxes, are not included because they codify the limitations on the State's authority to tax the federal government and the policy that prevents the State from taxing itself.

The design of Vermont's income tax forms, revenue processing systems, and off-line credit tracking spreadsheets provide a level of detail that allows a high degree of confidence in the expenditure amounts for individual and corporate income taxes. Data from individual and corporate tax returns for tax year 2005 are utilized, as well as all spreadsheets maintained by Taxpayer Services to track various credits. The summary list has comparative expenditure data for tax years 2004 and 2005. An introductory flowchart shows the calculation of the Vermont individual income tax and provides a framework for organizing the various exemptions, deductions, and credits. Expenditures are reported by tax type. If a credit or exemption is available to both corporate and individual income taxpayers, it is listed under each tax type and accompanying values pertain only to that particular tax. A list summarizing the expenditure value for those credits that can be taken against multiple tax types, including credits taken against the bank franchise tax, can be found on page 20.

Calculation of Vermont Individual Income Tax for Tax Year 2005

* Payment & credits: withholding, estimated payments, VT earned income tax credit, homeowner property tax rebate, renter rebate, real estate withholding, nonresident payments by business entity, refundable low income child & dependent care credit

The calculation of expenditures in the individual income tax involves first the identification of each expenditure within the flow of the tax calculation (see flowchart). The value of the expenditure differs depending on whether an expenditure is a deduction or exclusion from federal taxable income, an exclusion from the Vermont tax prior to applying the income adjustment, exempt income that is part of the income adjustment calculation, or a refundable or non-refundable credit against tax. Each type of expenditure involves unique estimating problems and a different methodology.

The individual income tax expenditures in the following list have been grouped into several major categories and include: 1) additions and subtractions from federal taxable income; 2) subtractions from Vermont income tax, a category comprised mostly of pass-through federal tax credits; 3) adjustments to Vermont income tax; 4) Vermont-specific tax credits applied after income adjustment; and 5) refundable credits. The corporate income tax expenditures have been grouped into two categories: 1) additions and subtractions from federal taxable income; and 2) Vermont-specific tax credits.

The estimated revenue impact for each expenditure is rounded to the nearest thousand dollars and the number of taxpayers benefiting from the expenditure is rounded to the nearest ten. In only one instance is there no available tax return data to provide an expenditure value.

Sales and Use Tax Expenditures

Estimating expenditures in sales and use taxes presents entirely different challenges than income tax expenditures. Unlike income tax credits and deductions, the tax department has no data for sales tax exemptions since these are not separately identified on any tax return. The estimates contained in this report are based on data from a variety of sources for different years and using different methodologies. In some cases there was no available data on which to base an estimate. Sales and use tax expenditure estimates, which are based on data from a variety of sources and inflation adjusted when necessary, are for fiscal year 2006. The estimated revenue impact is rounded to the nearest hundred thousand dollars. In most cases it was impossible to estimate the number of affected taxpayers, so the sales and use tax portion of the report does not include this information.

Exemptions from the sales tax are based on a broad definition of "sales." Until January 2007, the definition of "sale, selling or purchase" at §9701(6) was "any transfer of title or possession or both, exchange or barter, rental, lease or license to use or consume, . . ." The Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement, to which Vermont became a member effective January 1, 2007, uses a similar definition for "retail sale."

Sales and use tax exemptions fall into six general categories:

- true expenditures that represent policy decisions to protect or advantage certain activities or groups of consumers;
- transactions that fall outside the definition of the sales tax base and are in statute primarily for clarification, e.g., §9741 (35) and (37);
- exemptions that represent a choice of alternative tax schemes, such as the Meals and Rooms tax rather than extending the sales tax to meals for sale or rooms for rent;
- exemptions for intermediate goods used in the processing of a final product that will be sold at retail, such as the manufacturing exemption §9741 (14) or the newspaper exemption §9741 (15);
- exemptions for transactions the State deems too difficult to tax, e.g., §9741 (4); or
- transactions and sales by organizations that are either non-retail in nature or involve the transfer of tangible property in exchange for intangible interest.

In addition, sales tax expenditures tend to fall into groups by either the specific object that is exempt from tax (such as prescription and non-prescription drugs); the purchaser who is exempt from tax (such as the federal or state government, not-for-profit organizations or farmers); or the purpose or use of the item that is exempt from the tax (property that is part of the manufacturing process). Some items are exempt under more than one of these categories. The following is a list some these general exemptions.

Transactions Not Covered

In addition to sales exempted from tax under 32 V.S.A. § 9741, section 9742 specifies transactions that are not covered by the sales tax. Most of the transactions listed in § 9742 are not tax expenditures as that term is used in this report; rather they are non-retail transactions that involve the transfer of tangible property in exchange for an intangible interest or upon liquidation or as security for the performance of an obligation. It also excludes the sawing of lumber from the definition of fabrication and therefore from the sales tax base. The final transactions specified are use of waste wood by a manufacturer and the sale of telecommunications services to an affiliate.

| Statute | Enacted | Description |
|----------------|----------------|--|
| § 9742 (2) | 1969 | Transfer of tangible property to a corporation solely in consideration for the issuance of its stock pursuant to merger or consolidation |
| § 9742 (3) | 1969 | Distribution of property as part of a corporate liquidation |
| § 9742 (4) | 1969 | Distribution of property as part of a partnership liquidation |
| § 9742 (5) | 1969 | Transfer of property at the time of corporate organization |
| § 9742 (6) | 1969 | Contribution of property as consideration for partnership interest |
| § 9742 (7) | 1969 | Sale of tangible personal property as security for performance of obligation of vendor |
| § 9742 (8) | 1971 | Sawing of lumber is not fabrication |
| § 9742 (9) | 1984 | Manufacturer's use of its own waste wood for fuel |
| § 9742 (10) | 1997 | Sale of telecommunications service to affiliate |

Organizations Not Covered

Section 9743 codifies the limitations on the State's authority to tax the United States of America and the policy that prevents the State from taxing itself with respect to sales of services or property not ordinarily sold by private persons. Its treatment of certain (income) tax-exempt organizations found in § 9743(3), (4) and (5), however, does come within the scope of the term "tax expenditure" and those exemptions are included in the body of the report.

| Statute | Enacted | Description |
|----------------|----------------|--|
| § 9743 (1) | 1969 | State of Vermont, its agencies, instrumentalities etc. - Always as purchaser and as seller when the property or service is a kind not ordinarily sold by private persons or when it is an amusement charge |
| § 9743 (2) | 1969 | USA - Always as purchaser, user and as seller when it sells services or property of a kind not ordinarily sold by private citizens |

Two exemptions in § 9741 are in statute for similar reasons--they codify the limitations on the State's authority to tax and the policy that prevents the State from taxing itself.

| Statute | Enacted | Description |
|----------------|----------------|---|
| § 9741 (1) | 1969 | Sales not within the taxing power of the state due to the U.S. Constitution |
| § 9741 (6) | 1969 | Sales of spirituous liquors |

Certain Telecommunication Services

Within the definition of telecommunications service, no tax is imposed on “coin-operated telephone service, paging service, private communications service, or value-added non-voice data service” by virtue of 32 V.S.A. § 9771(5). These services are non-retail transactions that do not involve the transfer of tangible personal property and therefore do not qualify as tax expenditures as the term is used herein. “Telecommunications nonrecurring charges” are defined out of the term “sales price” and are not part of the tax base by virtue of 32 V.S.A. § 9701(4)(B)(vi).

Vendor Credits

32 V.S.A. § 9701(4)(B) excludes credits on trade-in from the pre-2007 definition of “receipt.” After membership in the Streamlined Sales Tax Agreement, trade-ins are excluded from the definition of sales price. There is a special rule for snowmobiles, motorboats and vessel sales, excluding the price or book value of the first vehicle if a second vehicle is purchased within 3 months.

Use Tax Exemptions

32 V.S.A. § 9744 covers exemptions from use tax. Property purchased prior to Vermont’s adoption of the sales tax on June 1, 1969, property on which a tax has already been paid upon purchase in another state and property purchased outside of Vermont while a nonresident is not subject to use tax. The state could not reasonably impose use tax on these generic categories of purchases. 32 V.S.A. § 9744 does contain one specific exemption from use tax – for property withdrawn from inventory and donated to a nonprofit. There is no basis for estimating how often this exemption is claimed, but it is assumed to be infrequent.

| Statute | Enacted | Description |
|----------------|----------------|--|
| § 9744(a)(1) | 1969 | Property used by purchases prior to June 1, 1969 |
| § 9744(a)(2) | 1969 | Property purchased by user while nonresident |
| § 9744(a)(3) | 1969 | Property on which a tax has already been paid upon purchase in another state |
| § 9744(a)(4) | 1985 | Property withdrawn from inventory and donated to nonprofit corporation |

Meals and Rooms Tax Expenditures

The rooms and meals tax poses similar challenges as the sales and use tax for estimation of tax expenditures. The tax department has no data on which estimates can be based, and the authors of this report relied on various federal and state sources, when relevant data could be found. All estimates have been inflation adjusted in order to provide comparison for fiscal year 2006.

The tax on meals¹ and rooms was enacted in 1959. The tax on alcoholic beverages was added in 1963. Unlike the sales tax chapter, chapter 225 does not contain an exemption statute. Instead, certain transactions that might otherwise be deemed a taxable meal or occupancy or alcoholic beverage are defined out of those (or related) terms. Thus, most of the exemptions or exclusions are found in definitions².

Meals Tax

A tax is imposed on each "taxable meal." 32 V.S.A. §9241. A taxable meal is food or beverage furnished by a "restaurant" and non-prepackaged food or beverage furnished by "other than a restaurant" whether for consumption on or off the premises. 32 V.S.A. §9202(10)(A) and (B).

Rooms Tax

An operator collects this tax on the rent of each occupancy (occupancy means use, possession or the right to the use or possession of a hotel room). 32 V.S.A. § 9241(a). "Hotel" is defined broadly in 32 V.S.A. § 9202(3).

Tax on Alcoholic Beverages

A tax is imposed on the sale of alcoholic beverages. 32 V.S.A. § 9241(c). Alcoholic beverages that are served under any of the circumstances enumerated in 32 V.S.A. § 9202(10)(D)(ii) are excluded from the definition of "alcoholic beverages." 32 V.S.A. § 9202(11). 1990.

¹ The definition of "taxable meal" was substantially rewritten in 1993.

² In addition to these statutory exemptions, under the Supremacy Clause of the U.S. Constitution, no state is permitted to directly tax the federal government or any of its agencies or instrumentalities. Therefore, Vermont does not impose meals and rooms tax on charges billed directly to the federal government in its own name (or name of the agency or instrumentality). This exemption does not necessarily extend to employees of the federal government even if charges are incurred on behalf of the government. See Vermont Department of Taxes Technical Bulletin No. 13 (1998). Nor does the state impose meals and rooms tax on itself. See James v. Dravo Contracting Co., 302 U.S. 134 (1937) (taxing its own operations would be a direct obstruction to the exercise of its sovereign power). Again, this exempts only direct purchases and not employee purchases. See TB-13, id.

PROPERTY TAX EXPENDITURES

PROPERTY TAX EXPENDITURES

Introduction

This section of the tax expenditure study estimates the value of exemptions from the statewide education property tax. Property tax expenditure estimates are based on the 2006 education grand list, which is a compilation of the information submitted by 262 local taxing jurisdictions, and information kept by state agencies with respect to state-administered programs such as use value appraisal and PILOT. Municipal-only property tax exemptions are not included in or estimated as part of this study.

Tax Base

The statewide education tax is imposed on homestead and nonresidential property. With only a couple of exceptions both categories are comprised of real property - that is land and improvements to land - as opposed to personal property, which is portable. Homestead property means a principal dwelling and land; nonresidential property specifically excludes personal property. The two exceptions from the personal property exclusion are "utility cables and line, poles and fixtures" and "gas distribution lines".

Grand List Data

Statute prescribes the contents of municipalities' grand lists. 32 V.S.A. § 4152. With respect to exempt property, the grand list must include "what the full listed value of the property would be absent the exemption and the statutory authority for granting such exemption and, for properties exempt pursuant to a vote, the year in which the exemption became effective and the year in which the exemption ends." However, municipalities do not uniformly comply with this mandate. In many cases the information is incomplete or difficult to ascertain due to non-standard reporting. Some municipalities listed properties as exempt, but reported zero value related to such properties in 2006.³ Exempt properties are often difficult to value since they are often constructed for a specific public purpose and are not frequently sold - churches for example. Nevertheless, any study of the impact of exemptions on the statewide grand list depends upon municipalities undertaking valuation of exempt properties. Since the estimates contained in this report rely in large part on grand list information received from municipalities, they necessarily mirror inaccuracies contained in those lists and fail to account for what has been omitted from those lists. The methodology used to estimate values from the available information attempts to compensate for omissions in the data and is described later in this section. Towns reported 8,911 exempt parcels in 2006 with a combined value of over $4.5 billion dollars.

Expenditure Types

A property tax expenditure may be a total exemption from tax or an adjustment to the value of the property that results in a lower tax. A majority of the total exemptions are contained in 32 V.S.A. §3802. That section contains the broad exemption for "public, pious and charitable" properties as well as specific exemptions – for example, property owned by veterans' organizations, YMCAs and YWCAs, agricultural societies, and animal shelters. Value reduction expenditures are contained elsewhere in statute - for instance the use value appraisal program is in Chapter 124 of Title 32 and tax increment financing provisions are found in Subchapter 5 of Chapter 53 of Title 24 and section 5404a of Title 32.

Section 3802(4) Exemptions

Many of the most familiar exemptions – and the ones that have generated the most legal controversy - are contained in Section 3802(4) of Title 32. The following categories of property are exempt under that section:

- real and personal estate granted, sequestered or used for public⁴, pious or charitable uses;
- real property owned by churches or church societies or conferences and used as parsonages and personal property therein used by ministers engaged in full time work in the care of the churches of their fellowship within the state;
- real and personal estate set apart for library uses and used by the public and private circulating libraries, open to the public and not used for profit;
- lands leased by towns or town school districts for educational purposes;
- lands owned or leased by colleges, academies or other public schools or leased by towns for the support of the gospel (but lands or buildings rented for general commercial purposes and farming and timber land owned or leased by these entities are not exempt);
- lands and buildings owned and used by towns for the support of the poor therein, (but private buildings on such lands are not exempt).

Although not specifically mentioned by section 3802(4), Vermont case law has established that hospitals may be entitled to a charitable or public use exemption. See Medical Center of Vermont, Inc. v. City of Burlington, 131 Vt. 196 (1973).

For purposes of this report, the Section 3802(4) exemptions are grouped together. Since municipalities are only required to report the statutory references, any attempt to identify the proper category within the section would likely result in inaccurate information.

Municipal Property

Prior to the enactment of Act 68 in 2003, which classified property as either homestead or nonresidential, there was no explicit statutory exemption for municipal property. However, case law recognized that municipal property enjoys an inherent exemption provided that it is used for a public purpose. In Act 68, the Legislature expressly excluded property owned by a municipality which is located in that municipality and which is used for a municipal purpose from the education property tax base. It is unclear whether the Legislature intended to change the scope of the "inherent" municipal exemption by adopting an explicit and somewhat narrower "municipal purpose" test. However, it is clear that mere ownership of property by a municipality does not imbue the property with a municipal purpose and that under either test something more than ownership is required.

Limitations on “public, pious or charitable” exemptions

The “public, pious or charitable” exemption is limited by two other statutes. Under 32 V.S.A. § 3832, certain property owned by religious societies⁵, property of railroad corporations, municipal ⁴ As part of a large body of case law construing this exemption, a three-part test has been developed to determine when property is entitled to tax-exempt status as a “public use” – (1) the property must be dedicated unconditionally to public use; (2) the primary use must directly benefit an indefinite class of persons who are part of the public and must also confer a benefit on society as a result of the benefit conferred on the persons directly served; and (3) the property must be owned and operated on a not-for-profit basis. See American Museum of Fly Fishing, Inc. v. Town of Manchester, 151 Vt. 103 (1989).

⁵“ Real estate owned or kept by a religious society other than a church edifice, a parsonage, the outbuildings of the church edifice or parsonage, a building used as a convent, school, orphanage, home or hospital, land adjacent to any electric light plants when located outside the owner-town and certain state property⁶ are taxable. In addition, other municipal property located outside the owner-town, certain leased property⁷ and property used primarily for health or recreational purposes is exempt only if voted exempt by the town. Such a vote exempts the property owner, but does not affect the municipality's payment to the Education Fund. In other words, the tax burden is spread across the municipality's taxpayers. Similarly, under 32 V.S.A. § 3840 property owned by fraternal organizations and used exclusively for the purposes of such organization is exempt only if voted exempt by the municipality. Such an exemption may be voted for 10 years initially and then for 5-year renewal periods.

College Property

There are several laws that pertain to college property. They are arcane and require some explanation. First, Section 3802(4) exempts "lands owned or leased by colleges, academies or other public schools", but not "lands or buildings rented for general commercial purposes, [] farming or timber lands owned or leased" by a college, academy or other public school. However, school or college lands sequestered to such use prior to January 28, 1911 are exempt. Then Section 3831 qualifies this exemption for property acquired by a college, university or fraternity after April 1, 1941. It provides that such property is taxable at the value set by the listers prior to acquisition. This is the case even if the property is improved as long as it is not used for commercial and investment purposes. Thus, property acquired prior to 1941 is exempt unless used for commercial, farming or timber purposes. Property acquired after April 1, 1941 is taxable at its acquisition value. Property used for commercial, farming and timber purposes is taxable at fair market value unless sequestered to that use prior to January 28, 1911 – in which case it is exempt.

Voted Exemptions Grandfathered in 1997

Properties may be exempt by law or vote. A property that is exempt by law (sometimes referred to as statutorily exempt) is not within the definition of "nonresidential property" and is therefore not subject to the statewide education tax.⁸ A property that requires a municipal vote in order to be exempt is "nonresidential property". 32 V.S.A. § 5401(10)(A). However, Act 60 provided a ten-year transition whereby properties voted exempt prior to July 1, 1997 were excluded from the education grand list. Beginning in 2007 properties that have been voted exempt by municipalities - such as recreational and fraternal organization properties - are no longer exempt from the statewide education tax. There is one exception to the expiration of this "grandfathered" exemption status - low-income housing that is exempt under 32 V.S.A. § 3843 will remain exempt for another year. See 2007 No. 81, Sec. 11.

of the buildings named in this subsection, kept and used as a parking lot not used to produce income, lawn, playground or garden and the so-called glebe land." 32 V.S.A. § (2)

⁶ State property located in any town other than that in which the institution of which it forms a part is located.

⁸ The statewide education property tax is imposed on all nonresidential and homestead property except as specifically excepted.

Exemptions Never Codified

A number of exemptions that are not codified have been identified, although this is by no means an exhaustive list. These exemptions usually pertain to particular properties and were enacted as session law before the adoption of the statewide property tax in 1997. Copies of the enabling statutes are included in Appendix B.

Property Tax Adjustments

Under prior law property adjustment payments were made to eligible claimants. For 2007 and subsequent years, property tax adjustments are applied as a credit to the property tax bill and the homestead owner receives a net bill.

The adjustment amount is an amalgam of several components.

- (1) First, there is a calculation based on the homestead owner's household income compared to the education tax burden on the housesite (sometimes referred to as a "prebate"). The education tax is limited to an applicable percentage of the owner's household income. The applicable percentage is a statutory percentage (adjusted annually but not less than 1.8 percent) multiplied by the "district spending adjustment", which is the amount the town votes to spend on education in excess of the base education payment. There are several special rules for calculating the adjustment:
 - Claimants with household income in excess of $90,000 receive no adjustment on the equalized housesite value over $200,000.
 - Claimants whose household income does not exceed $47,000 receive the statewide education tax rate multiplied by the equalized value of the housesite minus the lesser of the applicable percentage of household income for the taxable year or the statewide education rate, multiplied by the equalized value of the housesite in the taxable year reduced by $15,000.
 - A claimant whose income does not exceed $90,000 is entitled to receive $10 per acre for up to 5 acres in addition to the 2-acre housesite.
- (2) Then, homestead owners whose income does not exceed $47,000 may be eligible for an additional amount, which is the excess of the total taxes on the housesite (education and municipal) over a statutory percentage of household income. For example, a claimant with household income of $10,000 to $24,000 is entitled to an additional adjustment equal to the property tax in excess of 4.5% of the claimant's household income.
- (3) Finally, a claimant may opt to allocate all or any portion of his or her income tax refund to the property tax. Claimants who choose this option have 1% of the allocated amount added to the adjustment amount.

The adjustment amount may be reduced by the amount of any delinquent taxes owed by the claimant to the State or any debt owed to another State agency, such as child support, traffic fines, and student loans.

Tax Increment Financing Districts

Tax increment financing (TIF) is a legislatively authorized tax scheme whereby the property tax imposed on properties within a defined district is diverted from general purposes and is used to pay debt incurred to construct infrastructure for the district.

Municipalities are authorized to establish TIF districts under subchapter 5 of chapter 53 of Title 24. Two TIF districts existed at the time the statewide education tax was adopted – one in Newport City and one in Burlington. These districts were “grandfathered” by Act 60, which means that the tax dollars that would otherwise fund education may continue to be used to pay down debt on bonds issued to cover TIF infrastructure costs without the necessity of State approval.

Since the adoption of the statewide property tax, TIF districts must be approved by the Vermont Economic Progress Council (VEPC) in order to affect the education property tax grand list. Approval is contingent upon meeting the statutory process requirements and criteria set out in 32 V.S.A. § 5404a(h). The only VEPC-approved TIF district in existence is in Milton.

There is one other TIF district, which is located in Winooski. It was authorized by special legislation in 2000. See 2000, No. 159 (not codified).

VEPC Approved Tax Stabilizations

A municipality which enters into a property tax stabilization agreement, as authorized under 24 V.S.A. § 2741, for improvements to a commercial or industrial property may apply to VEPC to stabilize the state education taxes on the property involved for 10 years. 32 V.S.A. § 5404a. Application is made in conjunction with the business involved. If approved by the Council, the stabilization of state education property tax will be based on the same formula included in the municipal agreement.

Use Value Appraisal

Since 1978 the use value appraisal program has allowed the valuation and taxation of farm and forest land to be based on its agricultural or forest use instead of its value in the marketplace. While there have been many changes to the program over time, the program continues to allow reduced valuation of property enrolled, resulting in a reduction in taxes.

Methodology

The starting point for estimating expenditure values was the exemptions information provided by the municipalities on the abstracts of grand lists (411 forms). The exempt parcel information extracted from the 411 reports was classified according to category, usually the statutory citation. Where the taxable value of a parcel was listed as $100 or less, a value was estimated based on the median value of parcels statewide in the same category. The tax expenditure associated with each parcel was then calculated using the 2006 non-residential rate for the town.

APPENDICES

APPENDIX A

Tax Expenditure Report Authorizing Statute 2005 Act No. 75 and 2006 Act No. 207

Sec. 26. 32 V.S.A. § 312 is added to read:

§ 312. TAX EXPENDITURE REPORT

(a) For purposes of this section, "tax expenditure" shall mean the actual or estimated loss in tax revenue resulting from any exemption, exclusion, deduction, or credit applicable to the tax.

(b) Tax expenditure reports. Biennially, as part of the budget process, beginning January 15, 2009, the department of taxes shall file with the House Committees on Ways and Means and Appropriations and the Senate Committees on Finance and Appropriations a report on tax expenditures in the personal and corporate income, sales and use, and meals and rooms tax returns, insurance premium tax and bank franchise tax returns, and education property tax grand lists and such other tax expenditures for which the joint fiscal office and the tax department jointly have produced revenue estimates. The report shall include, for each tax expenditure, the following information:

(1) A description of the tax expenditure.

(2) The most recent fiscal information available on the direct cost of the tax expenditure in the past two years.

(3) The date of enactment of the expenditure.

(4) A description of and estimate of the number of taxpayers directly benefiting from the expenditure provision.

Sec. 27. TRANSITION REPORTS

(a) The department of taxes shall file with the House Committees on Ways and Means and Appropriations, and with the Senate Committees on Finance and Appropriations reports on the following:

(1) By January 15, 2006, tax expenditures reported under the personal and corporate income tax with the information required by 32 V.S.A. § 312 for the most recent fiscal year available and such other tax expenditures for which the joint fiscal office and the tax department jointly have produced revenue estimates.

(2) By January 15, 2007, tax expenditures reported under the personal and corporate income tax and sales and use tax, with the information required by 32 V.S.A. § 312 for the most recent fiscal year available and such other tax expenditures for which the joint fiscal office and the tax department jointly have produced revenue estimates.

(3) By January 15, 2008, tax expenditures reported under the personal and corporate income tax, sales and use tax, meals and rooms tax, and education property tax, with the information required by 32 V.S.A. § 312 for the most recent fiscal year available and such other tax expenditures for which the joint fiscal office and the tax department jointly have produced revenue estimates.

(b) For each of the joint fiscal committee's September 2005, 2006, and 2007 meetings, the joint fiscal office and the tax department shall file a joint report identifying specific tax expenditures or categories of expenditures in addition to those reported to the tax department for which revenue estimates shall be included in the next report or subsequent reports filed with the legislative committees. Approved: June 23, 2005
